Hooligans Rise Again...Brrrrrr...Raaa...

Issue X 1.5 February 17, 2010

The Moral Suppression Unit is in Full Force for 2010!

The beatings will continue until campus attitude improves!

By: G.I. Joe, staunch supporter of Military discipline

Has it ever crossed your mind to take off your clothes and chase polar bears across the campus of a university? (Were going streaking up through the Quad and to the Gymnasium!) Well if it has, just go ahead and slap yourself now.....I'll wait....(you like abuse don't you!) Filthy Lucre does not endorse any sort of sadistic nor masochistic behavior ---ed

POSTED: Starting in 2010 all things fun, exciting, original, or "outside the box" will hence forth be banned from the campus of MSU-N. All the money you have saved by freezing up the campus over Christmas will finally fund the Moral Suppression Unit (or M.S.U..... Coincidence?) you've always wanted!

In a stunning show of both school spirit and disregard for Mother Nature, some students took to the grounds in their knickers. These savages apparently rampaged the campus exposing their tighty whiteys, singing "I see London I see France....." and suffered frostbite to their unmentionables. According to some, this particular display was both disgusting and illegal. Who cares if Bozeman did it first! If Bozeman jumped off a cliff, would you follow? Mother Nature and the MSU have no tolerance for festivities of this sort! These polar-weather-lovers have put a new meaning behind Polar Spirit, if others wish to share in the fun they will have to bring their Nike's. Polar Sprint says, I. At the velocity these bear-ly clothed zealot's were moving, the frigid Montana climate seems to have had no affect. Our brave student-cicles were thoroughly examined by SUB staff who offered them hot cocoa for their trouble upon completion of this Polar Sprint!

However, someone must protect even the most zealous of northern supporters from the pitfalls of their own enthusiasm. Enter, the M.S.U. (which may be staffed by small children throwing spit wads whose mothers go to school at MSU-N but cannot afford daycare).

How will these tots prevail? How will they protect you from this menace that threatens the peace of your beloved campus? The answer is simple; all underwear must be banned from campus! From here on out you will be free ballers, all natural, commando, how nature intended! This does bring up the issue of possible discomfort, well students, the M.S.U. considers rashes and chaffing a more acceptable way to show your school spirit.

The official message from Northern's own Moral Suppression Unit is as follows:

STOP YOUR WHINING, PAY YOUR BILLS, AND LEAVE YOUR UNDERWEAR
OFF CAMPUS!

That is all.

This polar bear chaser makes us want some school spirit! Grrrrrr... --ed

Wrestling Heroes

By: Sylvia Franklin, Wrestling Enthusiast

Every so often a hero comes along, a Champion who could not be made except by the refiner's forge of tough competition. The red, hot, fires of sweat n' blood, scraping it out until the very last ragged breath is drawn; the whistle blows and only one is declared Champion. A synergistic match of acquired skill, sharpened wits, determination, and God-given talent well-used, by both competitors bears the promise of an Epic Battle. These two athletes may not simply be called excellent; these two are Heroes, each having perfected the skills of their sport. The truly great are made so only by struggling against a worthy adversary. If they were not both superior, neither one could truly be tested. These are two great athletes, two supreme wrestlers; One will be Champion this year. In battle, they constantly push each other to become better, to stay on guard, to avoid the pitfalls of sluggishness. These two hone the skills of the other, until they each become sharp, hard, strong, and fast. Neither will rest if the other is ahead, and neither will be satisfied with less than the Gold. Each strives to be the NAIA National Wrestling Champion for all of 2009-2010.

Here and now you are equally blessed. You have the privilege to watch this epic unfold. You have in your mist one such athlete, Evan Hinebauch. Evan wrestles for MSU-N at 184 pounds. He will meet his nemesis, Michael French-UGF, once more on our home campus before they battle it out for the national title.

Witness an Epic Battle.
